October Speaker and Program

“Gardens by the Bay”

By Dennis Cathcart

Dennis Cathcart, owner with his wife Linda, of Tropiflora Nursery, just north of Sarasota, have been supplying thousands of plants to the developers of “Gardens by the Bay” in Singapore since its ground breaking. In 2007 construction started on this greatest and most ambitious horticultural project in the World. Singapore claims to be the premier tropical garden city on Earth with the perfect environment in which to live and work. 4 years later the facility is up and functioning. Dennis will be giving us insight into the process and the results of all their efforts.

Peter Diamond has volunteered to help with the Workshops as Co-Chair. He is going to need help with organization, selection of topics and volunteers to give demonstrations or short programs.

Please call Pete and offer your assistance in any way possible.

September Workshop

Marsha Crawford will do a demonstration on how to build a tree suitable for mounting bromeliads and orchids. The photo on this page is a small tree I made to keep on my Lanai. The 2nd photo (on the back page) is a larger, multiple trunk tree that I made to keep in the yard. These have only been planted for about 2 months. I will bring the small one in and go thru the process of its construction and care in the workshop. Photos by Marsha Crawford.

October Workshop

We still do not have a topic or moderator for the October Workshop. If anyone would like to do the Workshop or do it in concert with someone else, please contact Pete Diamond.

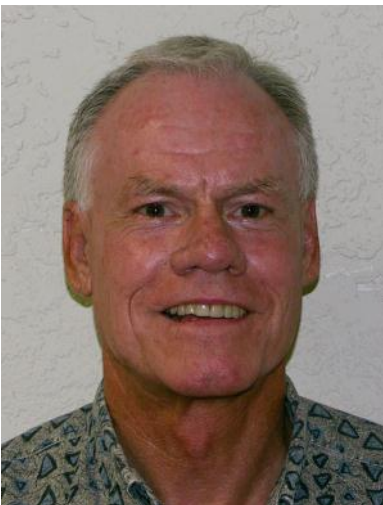

Front and Back Covers

By Larry Giroux

While on a recent visit to Denver, I noted this tree (see front cover) created to display a group of tropical plants at the Denver Zoo. Among the ferns and other tropical plants are several vrieseas, aechmeas and tillandsias. A closer look shows how the builder used plastic straps and sphagnum moss to assemble and attach the plants to the tree. This technique works well for a temporary display as would be the case of outdoor exhibits in Denver Colorado. We, of course, have the environs to allow year round outdoor growing of many semi-tropical plants including bromeliads.

The photo on the back cover by Marsha Crawford also shows a larger version of the type of trees she constructs to display her orchids and bromeliads. At the September Workshop, Marsha will show us her methods to make these outdoor or patio display trees.

New BSI Accredited Bromeliad Judge

Please join Betty Ann Prevatt, Vicky Chirnside and myself in welcoming CBS member, Steve Seal, to the exclusive group of accredited BSI judges.

Every few years the BSI initiates regional schools for new BSI Judges. Accreditation requires attendance at 6 schools, held about every 6 months, practical exams, student judgments, extensive readings of the bromeliad literature, growing experience of a large number of bromeliads of many of the genera as well as a final exam.

Steve has completed all of his requirements and has passed his final exam. At the upcoming World Bromeliad Conference to be held in Orlando, Florida, Steve and his classmates will be honored for their hard work with certificates and their BSI Judging Pins. Again congratulations, Steve, for this well earned achievement.

Bromeliad Expose'

By Larry Giroux

During my trip to Colorado, I also visited the Denver Botanical Gardens. Below are some photos from that trip. It always intrigues me that within the few months when the weather and temperatures are appropriate, the Garden's workers are able to create several acres of blooming exhibits and do it all over again each year. Of course the Gardens do have several heated conservatories for tropical plants such as their orchid and bromeliad collections.

*Aechmea
tayoensis*

As you walk into the conservatory you are greeted by a group of blooming bromeliads including Aechmea fulgens and variegated neoregelias.

On display in the private growing area is a collection of guzmanias, neophytums, aechmeas, vrieseas and even an encholirium.

The collection includes large bromeliads such as this Alcantarea with a spent bloom and a Aechmea blanchetiana in full bloom.

CBS Meeting Minutes July 15th, 2012

LOCATION: Covenant Presbyterian Church, Ft. Myers, FL.
ATTENDANCE: 45 members and guests: Marsha Sparks and Marilyn Wyrick.
WORKSHOP: “Bromeliad Propagation” led by Pete Diamond and Dr. Larry Giroux. A hands-on workshop demonstrating best methods for removing pups and potting. It is recommended, though not always feasible, to remove pups during the warmer spring months. Pups that are 1/3 to 1/2 the volume of the mother are ready to separate and pot. Removing pups often triggers the mother to reproduce.
PROGRAM: “Everybody Loves Neos” by Bruce McAlpin, Program Chair. Bruce delighted us with a bevy of colorful Neos from his personal collection. Ranging from the smallest Neo. lilliputiana, an assortment of Fireballs, ‘Passion’ and more were discussed. When rooting new pups, Bruce uses a small amount of sphagnum moss packed in the bottom of the pot. Bruce recommends liquid fertilizer at 1/2 strength plus 2-3 Osmocote pellets in the cup to promote best coloring.
BREAK: A twenty minute break was enjoyed. Thank you to Mary McKenzie and volunteers for the refreshments. CALL TO ORDER: President, Marsha Crawford called the meeting to order at 3:30p.m. The June 2012 minutes were accepted by Kay Janssen and seconded by Elizabeth Migliore as printed in the Meristem. Balance as of June 30, 2012 is $10,325.21. Betty Ann also invited the membership to the Kinzie Nursery on Sun. 7/22 from 2-4. Plants will be for sale. DOOR PRIZE: Neo.
